

Commitment To The Environment

Wy'East Medical endeavors to function in ways that are Earth friendly. Whether it is the energy sources we select for our facilities, the materials we design into our products or the supplies we use for our operations we remain vigilant in our commitment to the environment.

At Wy'East we are involved in energy conservation and material recycling in many ways. A part of our facilities energy requirements are fulfilled by renewable energy sources. We empower our employees to continually improve our energy conservation and recycling activities.

Wy'East products are designed to meet specific customer requirements and comply with various regulatory standards. As a result they consist of different materials. These materials are produced in many ways that consume a variety of resources. We constantly evaluate our products looking for ways to minimize their environmental impact through design, material selection, manufacturing, packaging and distribution.

The Wy'East patient transfer chairs are manufactured utilizing a high percentage of recycled steel and other materials that have partially recycled content. The design of these chairs allows for their easy disassembly at the end of their useful life so that their components and materials can be effectively separated for recycling. Specific recycling instructions for each Wy'East product are available.

Wy'East also manufactures single-patient-use transfer slings and slide tubes designed to reduce the possibility of transmitting infection thereby helping to preserve the health and safety of patients and caregivers alike. Our new patent pending PINK SLIP[™] slide tube product is 100% recyclable with a resin recycling code of "2", making it one of the most recyclable products of its kind.

At Wy'East the recyclability and recycled content of our product packaging is evaluated for improvement. In addition "minimal packaging" is a focus of our packaging design.

Energy conservation, recycling and waste reduction activities are ongoing at Wy'East as well as attention to environmental health and safety issues. It's all part of our commitment to leave a green impression.

All of us at Wy'East Medical.
